

PARAMETRIC-BASED CONTROL OF AUTONOMIC ARCHITECTURE

ABSTRACT

A method of handling requests can include the step of handling requests with a handler. An overload condition can be detected for said handler. Requests can be directed to an alternative handler. A return timer can be initialized. When the return timer exceeds a time threshold for the alternative handler, requests can be routed to the handler. The time threshold can be automatically adjusted based upon a time in which the handler handles requests.